Event/Activity Report

Sandip Institute of Pharmaceutical Sciences, Nashik, celebrated National Service Scheme Day on 24th September 2024, honoring the valuable contributions of NSS volunteers to society. This event aimed to encourage students to engage in community service and social responsibility. The celebration began with an inauguration by Dr. Laxmikant B. Borse, Principal of the institute. In his speech, he highlighted the crucial role NSS plays in nation-building and motivated the volunteers to actively participate in social initiatives. His inspiring words set a positive tone for the day's events. Prof. Shankar S. Yelmame coordinated the event, which drew 100 enthusiastic participants, including NSS volunteers and students. The celebration took place in the institute's auditorium, decorated with banners highlighting the achievements of NSS over the years. The event included several engaging activities, such as a poster and slogan competition focused on social issues and community service. Students showcased their creativity and commitment to social causes through their artwork and messages.

In addition, a cleanliness drive was organized at Mahiravani, where volunteers worked together to clean up the area, promoting environmental awareness and community health. The day also featured a tree plantation initiative, reinforcing the importance of environmental conservation among students. The celebration concluded with a pledge taken by all participants to commit themselves to social service and community betterment. Prof. Yelname expressed his gratitude to all attendees, stating, "National Service Scheme Day serves as a reminder of our responsibilities towards society. Together, we can make a significant impact through our collective efforts."
